NEW HIGH SCHOOL UV ELECTIVE: FILMS THAT SHAPE US

The class offers an insightful journey through American cinema's role in reflecting and shaping our perceptions of ourselves and the world around us. Students will enjoy watching thoughtfully chosen films from the 1940s to today, then collectively discuss how filmmakers use visual storytelling to explore important questions about identity, power, justice, and community. The elective begins with classic Hollywood to help students appreciate film as an art form, then explores various genres and themes to see how cinema reacts to cultural changes. Through lively group discussions, students will hone their skills in critical thinking, artistic appreciation, and personal connection, gaining valuable insights that hopefully extend well beyond the classroom.
